New Matris monoshock applications

THE list of applications for the M05KE monoshock, a two-way adjustable, hydraulic shock absorber with separate pressurised expansion tank, includes the latest Suzuki GSR 750 and Ducati Hypermotard models.

The M05R monoshock, a high-end shock absorber designed for road and sportbikes with separate expansion tank, can also be used on the GSR 750.

The company's hydraulic preload options for these two models include ID for the GSR and flexible P3 for the Hypermotard.

Matris has comprehensive suspension kits for these models that include shocks, fork kits and dampers.

Barnett billet pressure plate for Ducatis

THIS Barnett pressure plate for Ducati 6-speed dry clutch models is CNC precision machined from aerospace quality billet aluminium and then anodised in red, black or gold. The pressure plate helps to protect the clutch assembly in the event of a tip-over or crash and is an excellent complement to the Barnett clutch basket, the company says. The bearing and clutch control pin are already installed for easy installation.
